Technology and Domestic Violence

Recommendations for Australia

Education
Education and training for telco and platform staff, police, courts, and students were a high priority.

Assistance
Survivors and domestic violence workers need assistance checking privacy settings, contacting corporations, investigating crimes and, changing and unlisting numbers.

Resources
Survivors need replacement devices, mobile credit, in-person security checks, and reliable mobile service.

Regulation
Regulation is needed to provide universal hardship assistance, inform consumers about their data, prevent hidden tracking, and report on compliance.

Dragiewicz M. (2019). This research was made possible by a grant from ACCAN and supported by previous work undertaken by Molly Dragiewicz and Bridget Harris at QUT. The authors note our commitment to academic freedom and research integrity. No third party exerted any influence over the research design or analysis.