

Payphone removal in your community? Tell ACCAN about it

15 February 2010

Payphones are an essential community resource, and their removal is often contentious.

Payphones that are owned by Telstra require consultation before they are removed. Phones slated for removal must have a sticker placed on them, advising how to lodge an objection.

ACCAN wants to hear about your experiences where a payphone has been removed, or a removal is being proposed. Share your story by making a comment below, or email us at info@accan.org.au. Be sure to include information about the location of the payphone.
